The Looking Table

Today we set up a new table called, “The Looking Table.”

We used our sense of sight to observe objects closely.

We chose a cylinder to look through to find objects in our classroom.

Michael found a doggy bone.

Thomas loved looking through the binoculars. He found lots of interesting objects.

We read a story called, 'Brown Bear, Brown Bear What Do You See?'

We closed our eyes and imagined what we might see. We are going to make our own, 'What Do You See?' book.

This afternoon some of the children experimented with letters of the alphabet.

They matched the letters of words.

They printed some letters of their own and we worked together to find the matching letters.

Our Starry, Starry night pictures are now complete. Today we added the final step – the trees. We used different shades of brown and black to paint the trees and then used a fork to create the curved lined effect. Don't they look beautiful.
