

Niche Press – Expression of Interest: April 2016

Niche Press is a new local independent publisher of social enquiry, art, creative writing, poetry and other 'niche' smaller-scale publications that might normally get overlooked by the mass market. We believe in a community of ideas and will actively work towards facilitating this exchange. We use a different model that actively involves the creator in the success of each publication. Niche Press offers our books to you the way they were meant to be read - primarily as a printed book.

We are only looking for one suitable extra title (or perhaps two if the work is almost completed) for 2016. Note: we are based in Melbourne, Australia and really can only consider work for the domestic market. Also we are not a publisher of 'fiction writing' or childrens' books.

Complete the following information (point form is fine if that suits.) If you have a sample of the work you would like to publish, then attaching a small PDF file (not the whole work) is ideal.

Name:

Email:

Phone:

Location:

Online links (if relevant):

Working title/or main idea:

Summary of proposed work:

Include a synopsis, genre, approximate length, potential market and other relevant information. (e.g. In 2-3 paragraphs tell us what your creative publication project is about.)

Progress of the work:

At what stage is the work, how finished is it, what external assistance is needed (i.e. editing, proofing design, what are your expected timelines, etc.?)

Your professional profile and history:

Include writing and/or creative industry involvement, publishing history, professional or other relevant qualifications as you see relevant.

And finally why do you want to have a book published?

Thanks for your time. We will get back to you as soon as practically possible.
