Men's Pairs Club Championships

Hassen The Assassin

What a remarkable men's pairs final and one that Chris Hassen is entitled to savour for the rest of his life.

Five down on an extra end with one bowl to play - is there any better definition of PRESSURE?

But Chris calmly stepped up and with that graceful delivery style which so many bowlers would die for, drew the shot.

Chris Hassen and Ed Richardson beat Piotr Malicki and Robbie Rimes 20-19 in one of the most memorable finals of recent years.

It is was Chris's second pairs title in a row and the newly-returned Ed, who also won the pairs in 2009, was a late choice as his partner when Doug Pannell was unavailable to defend.

In a drama-charged affair, Ed and Chris had the wind taken out of their sails when they dropped a seven on the 20th end that turned a 16-12 lead into a 16-19 deficit.

Now the advantage was definitely with Piotr and Robbie, who started the game as firm favourites.

But Ed and Chris were able to salvage the three needed on the 21st end to extend the match to an extra end after Chris had played a great bowl to put the kitty in the ditch.

Piotr and Robbie looked to have created a winning head with five shots reasonably close, but it was time for Chris to display nerves of steel and destroy any skipping monkeys he was carrying after a tough Premier Sevens campaign.
